

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

It is a norm to pen down one's acknowledgements at the completion of an onerous task, I therefore am writing this though I do know and understand very well that the persons I am quoting below will have only one thing to say for this, "It is your right, no need to thank me for this". Still to show my appreciation and gratitude towards these caring people I am extending my sincere gratitude, albeit in the small words that I can.

I owe my deepest gratitude to Prof. (Dr.) Syed Maswood, whose encouragement, guidance and support from the initial to the final level enabled me to develop an understanding of the subject. His continuous support throughout the study has helped me to complete this challenging task.

I am grateful to Dr. Ghanshyam Solanki, Offg. Dean, Faculty of law for his invaluable suggestions and for taking intense academic interest in the study that improved the quality of this study.

Prof. S. N. Parikh has been one of "the motivators" for me, for and during this study, but the manner in which he treats me compels me not to thank him at all, as a daughter cannot thank her father in any words, but I can at least show my appreciation for his care.

I am blessed with a friendly and cheerful group of colleagues at the Faculty of Law. All my friends had supported me and have provided me with constructive advice, numerous ideas and useful discussions.

I am indebted to my in-laws for their constant support and encouragement in all the walks of my life. A married woman being allowed all the time and freedom to work as well as study, in our society, shows the extent of the help, encouragement and support extended by her in-laws, this is possible only when and if they consider the woman as their daughter and not a daughter in-law and I am really fortunate to have such great in-laws.

Words fall short to express gratitude to my Parents, first of all for giving me life, for educating me with all the aspects of life and for their unconditional support and encouragement whenever I needed most. My Sisters Anjali, Jigna and Yagna have always been positive and supportive all through my life. They have always been a powerful source of inspiration and energy for me.

There is one person in every woman's life who is her own and she does not at all thank him for whatever he does for her, her husband, similarly I cannot and will not thank my husband Jayesh for giving me confidence to study ahead, to give me his valuable inputs from time to time, for giving me the freedom to work and study, to help me as much as he can and much more, for which this space is too less, I therefore will just name him as a person who has been helpful to me in the process of this study.

And last but not the least I am grateful to all those without whom this study would not have been possible.
