

Acknowledgements

One of the most pleasant parts of writing a doctoral thesis is the section of acknowledgements. It is an opportunity to thank all those who have contributed to it in direct and indirect ways because it takes not one but a team to successfully complete a doctorate. Unfortunately the list of people to be acknowledged, no matter how extensive is always incomplete and inadequate and these acknowledgements are no exception.

Some people are like a lighthouse. They guide us towards our destination as we navigate the sea. I express my deepest gratitude towards Prof. Shagufa Kapadia, my research guide whose contribution in my professional and personal growth is remarkable. I appreciate her immensely, for being an inspiring teacher, stimulating my mind to seek answers and in her own special ways making me realize my true potential. Thank you for your faith in me, your patience and expert guidance throughout the study. The way you held my hand and took me through, I will always be indebted.

I am extremely grateful for the support, love and countless sacrifices of my family; my parents, Jagruti and Deepak and my brother Samir. This research would not have been possible without them. My mother, who safeguarded me from all odds, has been my backbone throughout the research. Believing firmly in my capabilities, she has never failed to shower words of encouragement, adjust to my moods and embrace me with warmth and utmost care. My father's unwavering support and deep engagement with my research topic from its inception to completion meant a lot to me. I always looked forward to thoughtful discussions with him, all of which never stopped challenging me and facilitated me to develop new ideas and think differently. My brother constantly reminded me to take things easy and cheered me up with surprise gifts and referred me to inspiring movies and books especially during the data analysis phase. I am truly indebted to my family for all the unconditional support and silent sacrifices they made for me.

Heartfelt words of gratitude must go to my friend, Shyamdas for continuously but gently reminding me to take care of myself while I was taking care of the deadlines. Hearing me endlessly, he has laughed and cried with me and always gave me priority in spite of his hectic schedules. Thank you so much for being there.

A sincere thank you to my friend, Satish, for reminding me of the deadlines in subtle ways and for making me visualize the finishing line. Thank you for your time and all the help with technicalities, formatting and figures. You were a big support for me throughout the study.

I am also grateful to some significant people in my life whose unconditional love and support kept me going. My cousins; Sheetal and Jay for taking keen interest in my work, being constant companions in late night studying and for being my cheerleaders. My childhood friends: Sudha, Vijayata and Munira for loving me enough, understanding me, and eagerly waiting for me while I was hibernating especially in the writing phase. A special word of thanks to my friend Sachin, for promptly sharing the relevant reading material related to data analysis and for patiently describing his experiences of conducting qualitative research in detail which made complex things appear simple to me.

Finally, I would like to acknowledge with deep gratitude each and every participant of the study for generously sharing, their deepest feelings and personal experiences during the interview and allowing me to enter their personal space. I am extremely grateful to all of them for their invaluable participation in the study without which this research would not have reached its successful completion.

The journey of my research has been enriching and rewarding only due to the love and support of these beautiful people in my life.
