

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I take this opportunity to express my gratitude to all those without whose support and co-operation I could not have completed this thesis. It is to my esteemed guide, Dr. Veena Mistry, Pro-Vice Chancellor, M.S. University, Baroda, that I owe most. I am deeply indebted to her for insightful guidance, constructive feedback and continued encouragement. She was always there ready to help me whenever I needed her and I consider myself fortunate to have had her as my guide.

I would like to express my deep and warm gratitude to Dr. T.S. Saraswathi, Head, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, for her critical and thought provoking feedback and I want to especially thank her for her occasional notes which acted as a booster to me.

The suggestions and feedback given by Professor Amita Verma, Director, Women Household Development Studies Information Centre (WHODSIC) during the research work were very helpful. I will always remember her affectionate and encouraging attitude.

I extend my sincere thanks to the staff members of the Department of Human Development and Family Studies, particularly the Ph.D. Committee for their valuable suggestions at all stages of this research endeavour. I gratefully acknowledge the constructive feedback given by Ms. Rajlakshmi Sriram and Dr. Rajani Konantambigi.

My sincere thanks are due to Dr. U.N. Dash, Professor, Utkal University, Bhubaneswar who took out time to advise me in the application of statistics during his visits to the Faculty and Dr. N.P. Das, Population Research Centre, M.S. University, Baroda for his ready help and for introducing me to Multiple Classification Analysis.

I express my gratitude to Dr. Romy Mistry for his keen interest in my work and for helping me in interpretation of statistics.

I am thankful to Mrs. Asha Misra and Dr. Arun Phatak for their helpful suggestions during delineation of programme item. I owe special thanks to Ms. Mona Shah and Mr. Ramesh Pandya for their assistance during script writing and Ms. Shailaja Menon for her feedback on the module of the programme.

I am particularly obliged to University Grants Commission (UGC) for granting me scholarship which enabled me to carry out this research.

I express my heartfelt thanks to my friends and project colleagues Ms. Bela Joshi, Ms. Hufresh Sethna, Ms. Sonia Khanna and Ms. Hina Patel for their ever-willing help in developing the video film. I also owe special thanks to all the artists and musician who were involved in the video film. Their cheerful and warm presence was a stimulant throughout the study. And special thanks to Mr. Zafar Alam and Mr. K. Srinivas for editing a part of my computer feeding.

I am thankful to Major General B.P. Roy, Commandant EME (Electrical and Mechanical Engineering) School for rendering the facilities of the video training wing and to Mr. Himanshu Pahad for his expert shooting of the video film.

I am grateful to the Department of Women and Child Development, Ministry of Human Resource Development, New Delhi, for funding the development of the video film.

I am very thankful to Ms. Alpa Shah who assisted in collecting the data from the Anganwadi Workers (AWWs).

I acknowledge with thanks the co-operation, participation and enthusiasm of mothers, AWWs, supervisors and Child Development Project Officer throughout the study.

I truly appreciate Mr. Jimmy Vandriwala, and Mr. Bindesh Ajmeri, Blossom Computer Services, for their expeditious computerisation of the thesis. My thanks to Mr. Vishal, for painstakingly typing the rough drafts of my dissertation.

It is difficult to adequately express my gratitude for my parents and members of my family; their support and blessings were always with me.
