

Acknowledgement

The present study has been completed with the help of several institutions and individuals, to whom I am grateful for their support.

The Faculty of Education and Psychology of the M.S. University of Baroda where I have been registered as a doctoral student, and the Faculty of Journalism and Communication where I have been working as a Lecturer extended full co-operation. Professor Sneha Joshi, my guide, and Dean, Faculty of Education and Psychology has been a constant source of encouragement and advice. Her enthusiasm and belief in gender equality helped channelise the research; and she exercised a right mix of patience and push in steering me through. I can not thank her enough. Dr. S. Roy, former Head of the Centre of Advanced Study in Education (CASE) has also been very supportive. I thank Dr. Nikhil Desai, Co-ordinator, Faculty of Journalism and Communication for his understanding in making adjustments when the hectic pace at the faculty and the imperative research schedule had to be balanced. My colleague Mrs. Niti Chopra has been generously supportive and accommodative all throughout.

Late Professor M.B. Buch patiently listened to my early ideas and gave suggestions and so did Dr. Binod Agrawal, then Head, Social Research Group, Development and Education Communication Unit at Indian Space Research Organisation, Ahmedabad. I am indebted to Professor D.N. Sansanwal, Director of Institute of Education, Centre of Excellence at Devi Ahilya Vishva Vidyalaya (D.A.V.V.), Indore who spent hours helping me conceptualise my proposal, explaining the requirements of the Value Discussion Model developed by him and at a later stage giving a rigorous scrutiny to the statistical analysis. Dr. Akhilesh Singh at D.A.V.V. also offered much required assistance in tracking down references.

Dr. Derek Sequeira and Dr. N. Pradhan of Faculty of Education and Psychology read and re-read my draft proposal several times, giving suggestions which enhanced clarity of the draft. Professor Durganand Sinha, the former Head of the Department of Psychology, Allahabad University and the former Director of the ANS Institute of Social Studies, Patna and Professor Lila Krishnan, Department of Humanities and Social Sciences at Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur gave me valuable inputs for tool design and methodology.

I express my thanks to Dr. S. Kumar, Center for Advanced Studies in Education (CASE), Faculty of Education and Psychology, M.S. University of Baroda; Dr. Prerana Mohite, Department of Human Development and Family Studies, Faculty of Home Science, M.S. University of Baroda; Professor Kalpana Parlikar, then with the Department of Extension and Communication of the Faculty of Home Science, M.S. University of Baroda; Dr. Hemalata Talesara, then Reader with Faculty of Education and Psychology, M.S. University of Baroda and Mrs. Niti Chopra, Faculty of Journalism and Communication, M.S. University of Baroda, for evaluating the tools and suggesting modifications.

Without the total support of the two schools of Vadodara (Baroda) - Shri Pratap High School and Navyug Vidyalay - the study could not have been carried out. I am grateful to Shri Gokulbhai Patel, Principal of Shri Pratap High School and his colleague, Shri Gosai, teachers, students and technical staff who never complained about frequent interruptions in their schedule and extended all possible facilities. I am also grateful to Principal, Dr. Prakash Desai, Varshababen, Pratikshababen and the students of Navyug Vidyalay.

Identifying the sources of dilemmas, developing them, short-listing them and preparing for presentation were crucial tasks which took a long time and several brainstorming sessions. Asha Chaudhari, Mahendra Chauhan, Katyayani Dave, Taruna Khanna, Leena Misra, Ashish Pandya, Gazala Shaikh - all post-graduate students of Faculty of Journalism and Communication - and Jahnavi Contractor, Tejesh Contractor, Seema Pathak, Milind Sahasrabuddhe, Sarla Santwani and Pankaja Sutaria participated actively in these sessions.

The video recordings were done by Nikhilesh Choksi and Viqar Saiyad. Ashit Amin, Amit Bhatt, Dr. Anil Bhatt, Malavika Bhatt, Asha Chaudhari, Mahendra Chauhan, Dr. Aparna Dasgupta, Katyayani Dave, Taruna Khanna, Leena Misra, Ashita Mohite, Ishan Pandya, Dr. Mahesh Pandya, Nipa Pandya, Professor C.H. Pathak, Seema Pathak, Vihang Pathak, Dr. Yogini Pathak, Ajeet Pilo, Professor Bony Pilo, Mrs. Rachel Pilo, Mit Raval, Parth Raval, Sarla Santwani, Parul Shah, Gazala Shaikh, Professor Uday Shelat, Dr. H.C. Shukul, Nidhi Shukul, Mrs. Savita Shukul and Gautam Upadhyay were the volunteers enacting out various dilemmas.

I thank Mrs. Saroj Padhye of the CASE Library, Ms. Celine Francis of the WHODSIC Documentation Centre and the staff of Smt. Hansa Mehta Library for their assistance in reference work. Typing and cyclostyling at various stages were taken care of by Shri Jadhav, Madhavi Pandya, and Maganbhai Patel and the efficient typesetting of the final Manuscript is the result of Mr. I.A. Rangwala's patience and skills. I thank Tanupriya and Tejesh Contractor for spending laborious hours on printing.

I express my thanks to Mayank Rai and Varsha Chitania for their prompt service in computerised data analysis and to Nandini Bhattacharjee, Ashutosh Biswal, and K. Pushpanadham for extending help with the statistical analysis. Thanks to Professor Bert Pelto, Consultant with the Population Council whose suggestions for qualitative analysis were very useful.

My entire family, with members ranging in age from seven to seventy years have taken keen interest throughout the study, giving comments and suggestions, procuring interesting reading material, sacrificing vacation-fun, providing lighter moments and moral support. In the context of the nature of my study, gender equality being the focus, two important men in my life, my father Professor C.H. Pathak and my husband Professor Uday Shelat, have remained thoroughly involved at every stage, from exhaustive legwork to intellectual exercise. I also take this opportunity to appreciate my mother Dr. Yogini Pathak for her constant support in preserving my balance especially when I passed through difficult patches.

My gratitude to Minu, my aide at home who facilitated my work by cheerfully shouldering the extra household burden that otherwise would have fallen on my shoulders because of my gender! I am sure there must be many more friends who remain unmentioned here. My thanks to them all.
