

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In a research venture as this one, there are many people to thank and though I may not be able to mention all their names, their influence is pervasive throughout the thesis and I am indeed grateful to them. To my guide Dr. M. Gon, Professor & Head, Department of Psychology, Faculty of Education & Psychology, M. S. University of Baroda, I offer my deepest sense of gratitude. Her keen interest in research along with her support and guidance have been indispensable in completing this work. There have been moments of disappointments, frustration and anger with of course periodical reinforcements in the form of surprises, satisfactions, sudden insights and constant reassurances from her. She has profoundly influenced the student as well as the person in me and my sincere thanks go to her for the understanding and forbearance demonstrated in guiding me through all the ups and downs - academic as well as personal.

I am grateful for the co-operation extended by the principals and teachers of the following schools: Baroda High School, Alkapuri; Baroda High School, Bagikhana; Bright School; Convent of Jesus & Mary; IPCL School; Navrachna School; ONGC School; Shreyas High School; and Vidya Kunj. I also wish to express my sincere thanks to the girls and boys whose enthusiastic participation made this study possible.

I thank Dr. Sreehari, Professor & Head, Department of Statistics, Faculty of Science, M. S. University of Baroda, and Mr. N. P. Das, Joint Director, Population Research Center, Faculty of Science, M. S. University of Baroda, for their helpful suggestions regarding the statistical analysis of the data. The advice and the helpful suggestions extended by Dr. U. N. Dash, Utkal University, Bhubaneswar, regarding the statistical analysis of the data are also gratefully acknowledged. My thanks to Mr. K. K. Bansal for computer analysis of the data.

To my friends Hina Saxena and Vijaya Vangela - thank you for always being there.

I also thank the Stanford University Library, U.S.A. for allowing me to use their library facilities.

I would like to thank the ICSSR for granting me the short term doctoral fellowship.

My sincere thanks to Jayprakash Zaveri for his unfailing encouragement throughout this study.

My heartfelt thanks go to my parents, my husband, and my sisters for sharing the good times without complaining about the bad. They helped in maintaining my spirit and confidence in the face of various frustrating and heart breaking moments which are an inherent part of any research endeavour.