

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

"External Economic Orientation and Economic Growth : India and the Newly Industrialized Countries" would not have materialized without the most able and learned guidance of Prof. (Dr.) N.M.Pandya who proved to be not only an invaluable guide but also a friend and philosopher at every stage of my research. I am and shall forever be highly indebted to him for contributing wholeheartedly his knowledge in the field of international development economics. At the same time, I also express my debt of gratitude to Prof. Pandya's family for their everwilling hospitality extended to me at their house at all odd hours not as a guest but more as a part of the family.

The credit for appropriate titling of the study goes to Prof. V.N.Kothari as also for his paternal approach towards me at all stages of the development of the research.

I am grateful to the librarian and staff of the Hansa Mehta library of the M.S.University of Baroda for their references during the entire course of my research. My most sincere thanks are also due to Prof. R.J.Mody, Director, Sardar Patel Institute and Mr. Trivedi, librarian, Indian Institute of Management in helping me avail of their library facilities at Ahmedabad at a crucial stage in the research.

I have also been immensely rewarded by the valuable comments and suggestions of Prof. V.N.Kothari, Prof. Pravin Visaria, Prof. Surendra Patel, Prof. J.C. Sandesara, Prof. R.J.Mody and Dr. Ravindra Dholakia before whom I had the opportunity to present the synopsis abstract of my research at their research workshop in Ahmedabad.

The crucial econometric treatment of the study would not have been possible without the sustained support of Dr.(Mrs.) A.U.Nanavati, Dr. A.Subba Rao, Dr.Sharad Bansal and Mr. B.C.Patel. For the same I also thank Mr.Harshadbhai, Mr.Vaidya, Mr.Bhatt and Mr.Kamleshbhai of the Computer Centre, M.S.University who most willingly extended all facilities and help that I asked for at their centre.

I would also like to acknowledge the sincere co-operation given to me by the entire staff of Dept. of Economics, Faculty of Arts and Dept. of Business Economics, Faculty of Commerce during my research period.

Prof Kiran Joshi, Faculty of Management Studies and Dr.Sanjiv Joshi, a colleague in the Dept. of Economics and an intimate friend, deserve special mention for unfailingly lending their skills and suggestions in the preparation of the thesis.

The credit for the major part of computer typing goes to Mr.Hemant Shah in producing neat and error-free chapters and tables and so does Mr.Shah's family. Help in typing was also extended by Mr.Dinesh Mody and Mr.Sanjay Chauhan.

Last but certainly not the least , I also take the opportunity to attribute this piece of work to my wife, Utpala and my little daughter, Riddhi who exhibited most patience and understanding during this endeavour. In the process if I have been remiss as a husband and father I shall make up for it.

Inspite of these, any errors and omissions that do remain in my work is solely due to me and my ignorance.

Thank you,

BARODA.
