

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This work was earlier undertaken in 1979 under the guidance of Professor R.J. Mody, Director, Sardar Patel Institute of Economic and Social Research, Ahmedabad. However, after the award of Teacher Fellowship in 1980, under the P.T.F. Scheme of U.C.C., in The Department of Economics, Faculty of Arts, Baroda, Professor Mody advised me to take up the fellowship and further continue to work on the related topic in the M.S. University of Baroda. During the period under his guidance, Professor Mody encouraged me to work enthusiastically and also instilled in me the confidence. For this, I am highly indebted to him.

I fail to account fully for what I owe to Professor S.R. Hashin for his able guidance. During my stay in the Department, I heavily drawn upon his time and intellectual resources. Due to his sheer interest in the study and constant encouragement, I was able to complete the work within time. Inspite of his commitments with the Harpada Planning Group, he always spared enough time and took due care to see that my research work does not suffer.

The academic atmosphere prevailing in the Department was of great help to me. The Department provides all the necessary facilities to researchers. I am highly grateful to Professor V.M. Kothari, Head, Department of Economics for this and for the award of the Fellowship. I am highly grateful to other members of the staff, especially Professor H.M. Dadi and Dr. H.H. Dholakia with whom I had fruitful discussions.

The other intellectuals who provided me valuable suggestions are Professor K.V.S.N. Murthy, Sardar Patel Institute of Economic and Social Research, Ahmedabad and Professor M.D. Sharma, Head, Department of Banking, Faculty of Commerce, Baroda.

Substantial expenditure was incurred to complete this study. I am highly grateful to the University Grants Commission for providing me financial assistance under the F.I.F. Teacher Fellowship scheme.

My college management, namely Uttar Saharkantha Uchha Kelavani Mandal, always encourages the staff in taking up research activities. I am highly indebted to the management for granting me academic leave for my Ph.D. work. My college Principal, Shri H.E. Shukla, Arts and Commerce College, Idar, always encouraged me in taking up research activities. During my stay in Baroda, he was taking keen interest in my work and progress. I owe my sincere thanks to him.

I express my sincere thanks to my colleague friend Mr. Avtar Singh for helping me at various stages in my Ph.D. work. I had also fruitful discussions with my other colleague teacher fellows. My colleague friends in my college, namely Mr. H.M. Shah and Mr. J. Dave helped me in many respects. I am also thankful to my other colleagues of the college for their good wishes.

Thanks are due to the management, Bank of Baroda, especially Dr. P.H. Dave, Chief Manager, Planning Division for making arrangements to get the necessary data from the respective regional offices of the Bank. I had also fruitful discussions with him.

The huge amount of data necessitated the use of computer. I am thankful to Miss. Jayashree Parekh for preparing the computer programme.

I acknowledge the blessings of my heavenly abode father and uncle for the successful completion of this work. It goes without saying that my wife Kokila contributed substantially towards the completion of this work.

My humble thanks from the core of the heart are due to the 'Almighty God' who showered upon me utmost courage to carry on the work to the successful completion.

I am thankful to Mr. C.N. Kachhia for his excellent typing.

My thanks are due to all others who directly or indirectly helped me in the completion of this study.

May, 1983

Vipin Shah