Kenya disposes of disposable bags

Kenya has _____ a new system to make shopping more eco-friendly. The Environment Ministry has launched a campaign to _____ the use of biodegradable shopping bags across Kenya. The East African Standard _____ that the Environment and Natural Resources minister launched the new bags, which are designed to reduce litter and prevent pollution. A spokesperson said: “This will make our landscape ____ of an eyesore.”

It was difficult to introduce the new bags in Kenya. Manufacturers complained that changing from the _____ plastic bags would cost 20,000 jobs. Environmentalists argued that _____ litter and pollution was far more important. The new biodegradable bags will also help reduce Kenya’s high rates of malaria. The new “green” bags decomposes and thus prevent breeding grounds for mosquitoes. A nationwide ban on plastic bags is next on the agenda in Kenya.
