

Acknowledgments

At the outset I hereby express my sincere gratitude to my guide Professor (Dr.) Syed Maswood, Dean, Faculty of Law, M.S. University, Baroda, for his help and guidance throughout this study.

I have always had a particular interest in the laws related to the financial world and specially International Trade and Finance, therefore when I started the study for the part fulfillment of the requirement for a Doctoral Degree in Law (Ph.D.) it was Prof. Syed, who knowing my interests in such fields, prompted me to choose a topic which would be new and also related to the field of my interest. It was his motivation, guidance and direction, which made me, choose this topic. I therefore once again extend my sincere gratitude to Prof. Syed for the interest and pains that he has taken to help me in the fulfillment of this study.

I further take this opportunity to thank Dr. Ghanshyam A. Solanki, I/c Dean, Faculty of Law, M.S. University, Baroda, for his continuous motivation and support without which I would not have been able to complete this study.

At the same time I express my gratitude to my parents for putting up with me for not being available whenever they needed me, as I was normally with the books and other material most of the time during this study.

I can never forget the support and encouragement of my wife Sapna who has supported me throughout the period during this study and who readily sacrificed all her wishes during this period so that I could concentrate on the work on hand.

Considerable amount of material and ideas in this study has come from people, some of whom are mentioned in the text and references but others may have not been so mentioned as the original ideas may have come from unnamed or unknown sources, so I do not make any claim as to the propriety or originality of ideas contained in this study.

Finally I thank all my friends for their continuous moral support which has directly or indirectly helped me during this study and I specially thank my dear friend, Dr. Nilesh P. Shah, for extending his support and help in my professional work, without which I could not have possibly concentrated on this study.

Last but not the least I cannot but profusely thank my two little kids, Parthi and Parth, who do not even understand what their papa is and has been doing for such a long period of time. I have deprived them of some real quality time specially during their infant years, which I know can never come back. This has given me too a lot of pain, but I have accepted this situation believing in the saying "No gain without pain".

I once again thank one and all who have been directly or indirectly associated in this journey of mine.
