

ACKNOWLEDGMENT

It has been a truly life-changing experience for me to pursue Ph.D., and I could not have done it without the support and direction I received from so many supporting hands.

First and foremost, I would want to express my profound gratitude to Almighty for 'His' divine blessings at every step, without which nothing would be possible.

To begin, I consider it a great honour and privilege to express my heartfelt appreciation and indebtedness to my Ph.D. guide, Dr. Sarjoo Patel, Department of Family and Community Resource Management, Faculty of Family and Community Sciences, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, Vadodara for her guidance, encouragement, ongoing support, and inspiration. I have the utmost respect and admiration for her, her great attention, her wise counsel, her unflagging dedication, her tireless efforts, and most importantly, her kind and pleasant approach.

I extend my sincere thanks to my fellow mate, and my near and dear friend Ms. Nidhi Desai for her positive reinforcement, critical comments, and valuable suggestions at various stages of research. Without her motivation and support it would have been impossible for me to complete my dissertation.

I am also extremely and greatly thankful to my colleagues and dearest friends Ms. Fatema Dahodwala, Ms. Smita Chandra, Dr. Vashima Veerkumar and Ms. Himani Shah for their constant support, valuable and critical comments and all the help during the various stages of my research. I would like to extend my thanks to all of them for always supporting me and helping me whenever I was in doubt and confusion, and helping me to solve the problems during my entire journey.

Words cannot express how grateful I am to my dear parents, late Mr. Devendra Doshi and Mrs. Nayana Doshi, who have always let go of their present to provide a better future for their children; they have been a constant source of inspiration, motivation, and encouragement to achieve greater heights in life. Their prayers have always been crucial in all my successes. Also, a big thank you to my dear sister Ms. Avani Doshi for being a moral support and giving all the love and affection to me.

I am indebted to my beloved mother-in-law, Mrs. Smita Trivedi, and my respected father-in-law, Mr. Nagesh Trivedi, for their encouragement, blessings, and unwavering assistance. Their constant adjustments and encouragement, especially during tough times, convinced me that family members are the most essential individuals in one's life, and that success in any phase of life is impossible without their support. They have served as a pillar and source of inspiration when needed. A special thank you to my mother-in-law for always been gracious enough to share my workload while caring for my lovely kid, giving me ample time to devote to my thesis.

I find it difficult to find the right words to thank my loving husband Mr. Arnav Trivedi for his compassion and understanding during this difficult and exhausting time. This effort would not have been done without his patience, valuable collaboration, sacrifice, and moral support. His excitement, dedication, and ability to make me think that I can succeed have served as a source of motivation for me at every step. I also appreciate him for his love and support, for putting up with my mood swings and grumpiness at times, and for allowing me time away from family matters to finish the project.

A very special dedication and wholehearted thank you to my dearest daughter Anaya Trivedi, who has always supported me and gave me happiness during the tough times. Her kindness, devotion, and purity leave me awestruck and proved an aid in relaxing. Her generosity has no bounds, and she has served as an inspiration in realizing a long-held ambition of mine. I've learned from my daughter's rapid development that time moves quickly and that we must seize the opportunity to accomplish our goals. With love and affection, this thesis is devoted to her.

I would like to thank all the teaching and non-teaching staff of the department for their constant help and support whenever needed. I would also like to extend my thanks to the admin staff of the Faculty Exam Office, University Exam Office and University Academic Section for their constant assistance and timely help during the entire period of my dissertation.

I sincerely thank each and every respondent for their cooperation, openness, and accurate information.

Last but not least, I would like to express my gratitude to all of my family members, friends, and well-wishers for their support and encouragement, whether it was direct or indirect, which helped me to complete my thesis successfully.
