

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This thesis is a product of many years of effort on the part of many people and I have only collected and acquired immense debt over the years, through the course of this journey. Being fully aware of the privilege this process allowed me to have both academically and personally, I would like to officially register my gratitude to the Department of Political Science, Faculty of Arts, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda. This work wouldn't have materialized without the conducive environment that was provided to me by both the administrative as well as the academic sections of the University, Faculty, and Department. I put on record, my deepest gratitude to Hon. Vice-Chancellor, Professor Vijay Kumar Srivastava, Former Vice-Chancellor, Professor Parimal Vyas, Dean of Faculty of Arts, Professor Adhya Saxena, Former Dean, Professor K. Krishnan for their unrelenting support towards the completion of this study. I thank the administrative staff from the Faculty and University for their support in the smooth conduct of the bureaucratic work related to the thesis. My special thanks to Dr. Mayank Trivedi and Smt. Hansa Mehta Library, The Maharaja Sayajirao University of Baroda, that has been a haven for aspiring academics and researchers.

I officially thank the Head of the Department of Political Science, Professor Amit Dholakia for his strong moral support and his conviction in my capabilities as a teaching faculty in the department and researcher; and for creating a suitable space for me to carry out my research along with my teaching.

No words would suffice my deep-felt gratitude to my research guide, teacher, confidante, and friend, Professor Lajwanti Chatani, without whom this project could not have been conceptualized in the very first place. I thank her for being patient all this while, and for trusting, motivating, and guiding me through everything that this thesis brought with it. My long conversations with her on and around the theme of the study and my exposure to stalwarts within and outside of the discipline, only helped me enrich the nature of my study. Her playful, cheerful, and optimistic attitude towards life in general and work in particular, both as an administrator, academic, and researcher, has left an indelible imprint on me, for which I shall be eternally grateful all my life. I would also like to thank the former head and professor of the department, Professor Thomas Pantham, and his late wife, Annie Thomas, for their love and support.

My academic journey would not have been complete without my engagements with the Forum on Contemporary Theory (FCT Baroda), and the face of it, Prof. Prafulla Kar, for being the ideal teacher anyone would aspire to become. I extend my regards and gratitude to all my former colleagues from the Centre and the Library for having inspired me to persistently think and learn.

Emotions betray my intention to pen down my gratefulness to my parents in Vadodara and Surat, Maya Vijayan and CG Vijayan; Jignesh Pachchigar and Urvi Pachchigar for their endurance, trust, and support through my academic journey. I also thank my extended families in Kerala, Surat, and elsewhere for keeping the faith strong and driving me to push my limits.

I would like to thank my husband, Jay; my brothers, Preeth and Mirav; my music Guru, Mahalaxmi Ramachandran, and her beautiful family, for imparting strength when it seemed difficult to proceed and for coaxing me to challenge myself.

I cannot but thank my colleagues and friends, both former and current, from the Department, Dr. Thomas George, Dr. Deepti Acharya, Pradiap Vegad, Dr. Udayprakash Sharma, Fiona Dias, Bhoomi Shroff, Subham Kanu, Dahyabhai and Ranabhai – for their encouragement and strong support. I am also thankful to the former teachers of the Department for making Political Studies enjoyable during my initial years of learning. As they say, one never shapes into what one is, without the ones you see every day and who motivate you to learn every day. I would sincerely like to thank, most importantly of all, all students, whom I have engaged with, over the years. My special gratitude to those students, who helped me with articles and readings whenever there was a need.

I must place on record the inspiration behind my getting into research, my grandfathers, Narayana Panicker and Govindan Nair, who instilled a curiosity in social sciences at a young age, and to whom, I humbly dedicate this study.

Aparna Vijayan

Vadodara

December 2022