

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Research is a never ending acquisition of knowledge or data, which can not be done solely by any single person without the help of others. At this point of time I feel that the present work would not have been completed by thus far without the blessing of my parents, the constant inspiration of my wife, the able guidance of my teachers, co-operation offered by my friends and the encouragement provided by my well wishers. It is a pleasant aspect that I have now the opportunity to express my thanks to all of them.
