I gratefully take this opportunity to express my feelings of thanks to Dr.H.S. Desai for rendering his guidance and help throughout the span of the preparation of the thesis.

I am also thankful to Dr.N.S. Pandya and Dr.M.M. Patel for taking keen interest in my progress and providing all the facilities for the research in the department of physics at M.S. University of Baroda.

My sincere thanks are also due to Dr.D.R.Kulkarni, Head of the computer section, physical research laboratory for giving technical assistance for computer work.

I am indebted to Dr.J.E. Turner,L.G.Christophorou (Health physics division, Oak-Ridge National laboratory, Tennessee, U.S.A.) and Dr. K.Takayanagi(Institute of space and Aeronautical science, Japan) for taking keen interest and suggesting some points at various stages of the research.

Thanks are also due to my colleague Shri S.R.Pandya for many helpful discussions at various stages. At last I acknowledge to Shri R.A.Punjani for getting this thesis typed.
