Their usual questions with a smile : "How is it progressing? Need help?" indicated their concern. I am grateful to them for their encouragement.

Mr. B. Ghosh and Miss. Shaila Tudu, my co-students for Ph.D., shared pains and pleasures of the whole process. I consider myself fortunate to be an integral part of the team.

I am grateful to Mr. P.J. Patel, Dept. of Sociology, Baroda for extending his whole hearted support at every stage of my work. For me, he symbolized the friendship which was objective, productive and full of concern for mutual growth.

From 1966 onwards, my guide Mr. K.M. Sharma has been helping me to grow academically. Since the beginning of the study, I bothered him for various types of help. And he always offered it with grace. At various stages I had developed anti-suggestibility and he helped me learn humility. I am thankful to him.

During the study period, my family members - Sushila, Sheela, Kanu - tolerated my inadequate performance of familial roles. They seem to be more happy than me, for the completion of the study.
