

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

For the completion of my Ph.D. work, I am greatly indebted to many people. The first on the list is my guiding teacher, Professor S. K. Desai, Professor of History, Department of History, Faculty of Arts, M. S. University of Baroda. The induction provided by him in this particular topic and for his continuous encouragement, I am most thankful to him. His concern, direction, and guidance have assisted me greatly in my academic pursuits. My gratitude to him is indescribable in words.

Similarly, I would like to thank Dr. G. A. Pandor, Reader in History, for his kindness in seeing me through my work with all kinds of assistance. I gained much from the extensive sessions I had with him. I also express my gratitude to Shri M. K. Bapat, my teacher and senior member of my department, for his valuable suggestions. I also thank my friend and well-wisher, Shri H. S. Shelat, Reader in English for his valuable support in my work.

I also thank the Office Staff of the Faculty of Arts and the Political Science Department for their assistance to me all through my research work.

Finally, I shall be failing in my duty if I do not mention my wife Minaxi and children for providing me necessary facilities and comforts, while this work was in progress.

MAY, 1992

R. J. SHAH
Reader in History