

C O N T E N T S

PREFACE	ii
LIST OF TABLES	x
LIST OF CHARTS	xvii
CHAPTER I : INTRODUCTION : CONCEPTUAL STRUCTURE	1 - 65
1.1 Introduction	1
1.2 Concept of a Good School	4
1.3 Concept of Organizational Climate	13
1.4 Dimensions of Organizational Climate	21
1.5 Concept of Personality	41
1.6 Pupil Control Ideology	49
1.7 Dogmatism: Its Nature and Meaning	59
1.8 Conclusion	65
CHAPTER II : REVIEW OF RELATED RESEARCH	66-134
2.1 Introduction	66
2.2 Instruments for Measuring Climate	66
2.3 Dimensions of Climate	74
2.4 Variables influencing Climate	77
2.5 Climate and Personality	86
2.6 Climate and Pupil Control Ideology	103
2.7 Personality and Pupil Control Ideology	112
2.8 Climate and Dogmatism	123
2.9 Dogmatism and Pupil Control Ideology	129
2.10 Conclusion	133

CHAPTER III : THE RESEARCH PLAN 135-194

3.1	Introduction	135
3.2	The Rational of the Study	140
3.3	The Scope and Limitations of the Study	144
3.4	Assumptions	149
3.5	Objectives of the Study	150
3.6	The Nature of the Data and their Collection	152
3.7	The Research Instruments and their Scoring Schemes	153
3.8	The Sample	178
3.9	The Hypotheses	186
3.10	Statistical Procedure	190
3.11	Conclusion	193

CHAPTER IV : DATA PROCESSING AND INTERPRETATIONS 195-333

4.1	Introduction	195
4.2	Identification of School Climate and Their Variations	196
4.3	Agreement of Teachers and Principals in their Estimates of the Various Dimensions of Organizational Climate of their Schools	212
4.4	Relation Between Climate Typology and Geographical Location of Schools	216
4.5	School Size and the Climate Typology	220
4.6	School Climate in Relation to Certain Categories of Schools	224
4.7	Relationship between Biographical Charac- teristics of Teachers and their Perceptions of Climate Categories of their Schools	231

4.8	How Personality Factors of Teachers Affect their Perception of the Climate of Their Schools	252
4.9	School Climate Typology and its Relationship with Pupil Control Typology	268
4.10	School Climate and Belief Systems of Teachers	275
4.11	The Personality Factors, The PCI and the Belief Systems of Teachers in Relation to Certain Static Variables.	280
4.12	Relationship Between School Categories and Teachers' PCI Scores	287
4.13	An Inquiry Into the Extent to which Biographical Variables of Teachers Influence their Pupil Control Ideology	292
4.14	Relationship Between Categories of Schools and their Teachers' Dogmatism Level	302
4.15	Size of School and the Three Major Teacher Variables	304
4.16	The Relationship Between the Pupil Control Ideology of Teachers and their Personality Factors	312
4.17	Relationship of Certain Biographical Variables of Teachers with Their Belief System	320
4.18	Multiple Correlation and Regression Equation	328
4.19	Conclusion	332

CHAPTER V : FACTOR ANALYSIS 334-366

5.1	Introduction	334
5.2	Principal Component Factors (OCDQ)	334
5.3	Four Factor Relation Solution	341
5.4	Principal Component Factor (OCDQ, Personality Factors, PCI and Dogmatism)	347
5.5	The Eleven Rotated Factor Solution	353
5.6	Conclusion	365

CHAPTER VI : FINDINGS AND IMPLICATIONS 367-413

6.1	Introduction	367
6.2	Brief Overview	369
6.3	Realization of Objectives	373
6.4	The Major Findings	376
6.5	Implications	396
6.6	Conclusion	412

APPENDICES : 1-84

I	Suggestions for Further Research	1
II	Questionnaire
	1. The OCDQ - Baroda Form I	8
	2. The PCI - Baroda Form I	17
	3. The Dogmatism Scale (Form E)	21
	4. 16 P.F. Questionnaire (Form C)	27
III	Experimental Drafts of the OCDQ and the PCI	46
IV	List of the Schools Participated in the Study	66

V	Persons Interviewed	71
VI	School-wise Double Standardized Score on the Dimensions of The OCDQ (Baroda Form I)	75
VII	Profiles of Sampled Schools under three Climate Categories	80
REFERENCES :		85-125
