6 U.G.C. Special Assistance Programme of Department of History

The assistance given to the Department of History to uplift its teaching and research work is a recognition of the work done by the Department over a number of years.

Under the programme, the Department would get additional staff of a Professor, two Readers and four lecturers. It would also have a non-teaching technical and administrative complement. In addition, it would have four Junior Research Fellows, Four Teaching Fellows, Four National Scholarships and a number of foreign and Indian Visiting Fellows. The Department would have a building of its own, a non-recurring block grant for Library, equipment and a vehicle; it is also provided with matching recurring grants providing for books and journals, research and field grant, seminars and contingencies.

The institution of this programme would allow a Centre of national importance to be developed in Gujarat, a Centre which would be able to explore efficiently, the rich history, culture and heritage of Gujarat.

The Department would diversify both its graduate and post-graduate teaching, taking up several specialisations like Medieval Indian History, European History, Asian History and American History. In particular, the emphasis would be on social, economic and intellectual history. The focus of the work will be on Gujarat. Western India as a whole, Rajasthan, Gujarat and Maharashtra would be examined in perspective, both in teaching and research.

The main thrust of research will be on the economy of the agrarian people, generally from 15th century onwards, on urban history, on social history, on trade and nature of trade both internal and foreign, from 15th century onwards, the processes of change, of transition, of renaissance in the 19th century; critical editions and translations of significant medieval and modern works of history and economic and social history in several languages, Gujarati, Persian, Arabic, French, Dutch and Portuguese.

The University Grants Commission has provided 100% Non-Recurring and Recurring grant upto the close of the Sixth Plan i.e. till March 31, 1984. This total investment is expected to be in the neighbourhood of about Rupees thirty to thirty five lakhs. It is expected that the recurring expenses of the Centre on that date would be about Rupees three lakhs. This the Government of Gujarat has assured, it will take over on that date.

The construction work of the building of the Department of History commenced on January 22nd 1979 and the Chairman, U.G.C. laid the Corner Stone of this building on 27th April 1979.

The Centre has now begun work and will take shape in a few months.
